Gleisdorf, June 11, 2018

On June 7, 2018, the 14th Styrian Export Day took place in Graz. As a highlight, the Styrian export prices were awarded for this occasion. 47 flagship companies from all over Styria applied for the Styrian export price in the categories "small, medium and large enterprises". Binder+Co prevailed against its competitors in the category "large enterprises" with the project "ruby sorting with the MINEXX sorting system" and thus wins the 14th Styrian export price.

Through close cooperation with international specialists, local partners and tailor-made solutions for our customers, Binder+Co is currently one of the leading manufacturers of sorting systems, which are also used in the primary raw material sector. Increasing demand and the associated need for the sorting of optically similar and optically indistinguishable material placed the focus of the research and development department on sensor-based sorting. In 2017, Binder+Co sold the first MINEXX sorting machines for sorting rubies to one of the world's largest suppliers of colored gemstones.

For 124 years, Binder+Co has been active as a mechanical and plant engineering company in the primary and secondary raw materials industry. 370 global employees contribute to global success and ensure an export ratio of well over 90 %. In 2017 alone, deliveries were made to more than 64 countries. The production site located in Gleisdorf gives Binder+Co the flexibility and quality that is in demand internationally. Binder+Co is an excellently connected company with five subsidiaries and more than 40 distribution partners. The short way to the customer is always focussed.
